MEAT PRICES IN U. S. GIVEN NEW CEILINGS

Beef, Veal, Lamb and Mutton Schedules Listed By OPA Officials

RATES TO GO INTO EFFECT ON MONDAY

Reductions of One to Three Cents Represented In Most Instances

Cents-per-pound ceiling prices for specific cuts and grades of beef, veal, lamb, and mutton that will become effective Monday, May 17, in 10 zones throughout the United States are announced in full today by the Office of Price Administration.

As the specific prices are tied to five grades of meat, retailers are required to post the grades of meat they display in their stores and segregate the various grades in their display. Thus consumers are able to check compliance with the ceiling.

As forecast on April 24, the new prices represent a reduction in most cases of from one to three cents from retail ceilings originally scheduled to take effect April 15, the OPA says. Further and more substantial reductions in these prices will be made on June 1 in accordance with the general roll back of prices announced by Price Administrator Brown on Friday, May 7, and will go into effect June 1.

Further Reduction Looms

It is estimated that prices announced today will slightly reduce the retail prices of meats as shown in the February, 1942, cost-of-living index. The decrease from March and April index prices is expected to be greater. Revision of the April 15 prices was made to effectuate the policy established by the President's "hold-the-line" order of April 8.

Because certain large-volume handlers of meat under flat dollars-and-cents ceilings customarily operate with margins lower than those provided for by the regulation, the Price Administrator stated that these sellers were being requested to maintain prices at a minimum of 10 per cent under the flat ceilings established by this regulation. The effect of this for the consumer is to maintain prices substantially below the ceiling prices in these establishments. A further revision of the order to establish special classifications for large-volume handlers of meat is presently under study.

Prices of all beef steaks and roasts and several types of beef stew meat are reduced from those established in the original regulation. Lamb and mutton prices are reduced in some instances. Retail ceiling for wholesale cuts are lowered for each of the three kinds of meat. Prices of veal cuts, and of beef hamburger, are unchanged.

Additional cuts of beef, veal, lamb and mutton are given specific ceiling prices for the first time. The new prices are contained in Amendment 2 to Maximum Price Regulation No. 355, retail ceiling prices for beef, veal, lamb and mutton cuts. The amendment is effective May 17.

In calling attention to the requirement that the storekeepers designate the grades of meat they display, OPA said: "Retailers are already required to separate the different grades of meat they display. This amendment affords them an opportunity to keep check on the separation and to assist their customers. All meat is

Democrats Endorse GOP Mayor, Auditor

Will Offer No Opposition for Johnson, Webster, Who Have "Performed Duties In Satisfactory Manner"

Mayor Johnson

Auditor Webster

Democrats of Salem will offer no candidates for mayor or city auditor at the municipal election next November, provided the Republicans re-nominate Mayor R. R. Johnson and Auditor Karl L. Webster without opposition at the August primary election.

This action was taken at a meeting of the Democratic party last night, with adoption of a resolution to that effect.

The resolution declares that Mayor Johnson and Auditor Webster have performed their duties in a satisfactory manner and resolves that the Democratic party refrain from running candidates for these two city offices.

LIQUOR FLOW IS SHUT OFF

Stores Will Remain Closed Until June 1, Beginning of Rationing

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, May 12.—Ohio's retail liquor stores were ordered closed at 3 p. m. (Central Standard time) today to give personnel more time in which to prepare purchase books consumers will need to buy spirits after rationing begins June 1.

The order came unexpectedly five days ahead of the previously-fixed start of a liquor "holiday" in which preparations for rationing were to be completed.

Liquor Director Don Fisher said the act was necessary to overcome a manpower bottleneck brought on by a flood of applications for purchase books.

Fisher announced recently the stores would be closed from May 17 to June 1, when rationing gets under way formally. Applications for purchase books have so swamped all stores, however, it was necessary to order outlets closed so that personnel could devote full time to preparation of the books, Fisher explained.

GRAND JURY WILL RECESS TO MONDAY

LISBON, May 12.—The April grand jury, recalled to consider three cases, two of them shootings, was recessed today until Monday due to the condition of one of the victims, George Ulrich, of Salem, who is in critical condition in the Salem Clinic.

William Redmehovich is charged with shooting with intent to kill Ulrich, who was wounded during an argument over rent money.

Frank Holland, East Liverpool Negro, is charged with murder in the death of Phoebe Peachy of Wellsville. The jury also must consider the charge of attempted rape filed against Jack Bossen, East Liverpool soldier, although Judge Sharp sentenced him to the penitentiary for violation of his probation.

Levy Is Approved

MIDDLETOWN, May 12.—A 1-mill levy, sought by the board of education after school employees demanded a 10 per cent raise in pay, was approved by Middletown voters 1,376 to 519 yesterday in a special election. It was the first state election to be held in the state under a new law empowering school boards to call such elections to meet operating expenses without filing petitions with the state election board. Only 19 per cent of the city's voters participated.

NEW OHIO MEASURE WILL RELAX RULES

Women, Minors May Work Longer Hours; Law Also Opens New Jobs

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, May 12.—Relaxation of Ohio's protective laws so women and minors may work longer hours during war time had the legislature's approval today.

The legislation, most controversial the general assembly has handled in many years, was approved by the house of representatives late yesterday after three and a half hours of debate. It goes back to the senate for concurrence in an emergency clause making the bill effective as soon as it is signed by the governor. Without the emergency, 90 days must elapse.

Although the senate rejected the emergency provision in passing the bill April 20, leaders said they believed the upper branch would accept it in view of the house's action.

Bricker Will Sign Gov. John W. Bricker has indicated he will sign the bill.

The measure was passed by the house, 91 to 38, without a vote to spare. Speaker William M. McCulloch cast the deciding ballot. Earlier the emergency clause was adopted 94 to 34. Majority Leader William H. Daddens of Cincinnati declared the legislation was solely needed by manufacturers who were having to violate present laws in order to meet war production demands.

Organized labor had fought the proposal, contending it would lead to exploitation of women and children.

The legislation was advanced to provide relief from a shortage of manpower in war plants and other industries, and its principal features are:

SERGT CARTER PRISONER OF GERMAN ARMY

Salem Lad's Fate Revealed In Message From War Department

COLUMBIANA BOY MISSING AT SEA

William H. Magill Lost On First Trip With Merchant Marine

A Columbian boy serving in the U. S. Merchant Marine was reported missing at sea today, while a Salem soldier, previously reported to be missing in action, was announced as a prisoner of war in Germany.

William Henry Magill, 23, son of Mrs. Alice Magill of Hyland ave., Columbiana, was reported "missing and presumably lost following action in the performance of his duty and in the service off his country in the American Merchant Marine," a Coast Guard message to his mother explained.

Magill, who joined the Merchant Marine Nov. 1, 1941, was making his first trip abroad, his mother said.

Reported today to be a prisoner of the German government is Sgt. Charles Ray Carter, 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Carter of the Benton road.

Sgt. Carter, missing in action since Feb. 14, apparently was captured by the Germans in the early North African fighting. He was serving with the First Armored division.

A War department message to the parents today disclosed that he was a prisoner of the enemy.

Magill, the Columbian lad, was graduated from Columbiana High school in 1938. He started in athletics. Before he enlisted he was employed by the Curtis-Wright Airplane Corp., at Buffalo, N. Y.

A brother, Norman, is in the army somewhere in the Pacific zone. He has two sisters, Mrs. Eric Gundrup of Bay Village, and Mrs. Richard Bowling of Columbiana.

HOSPITALS STRESS NURSE RECRUITING

Albert R. Hanna, superintendent of the Central Clinic hospital, announced today that, in keeping with the national policy, open house was not held at the hospital today, National Hospital day.

Nurse recruitment is the theme of the national observance and while the Central Clinic does not have a training school for student nurses, the administrative body is cooperating in every way possible to encourage senior high school girls to consider nurse training as a professional career.

"The need for nurses has become greater in the last few months than ever before," Hanna said today, "and had it not been for the invaluable assistance given by the Red Cross nurse aides here in Salem the last year, hospital service would have been almost impossible these women have given freely of their time, with no compensation whatever except the satisfaction of having served humanity."

Churchill In U. S. Again - Welcomed By F. D. R.

Making another of his surprise visits to Washington, Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill is shown with President Roosevelt in the capital. Churchill was accompanied to the U. S. by a staff of military and naval experts. It is believed the Allied chiefs will confer on momentous decisions to be made in connection with an invasion of the continent of Europe. This is the fifth Roosevelt-Churchill meeting since the outbreak of the war.

MACHINE TOOL CUT ORDERED

War Plant Construction Is Also Halted By Government

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 12.—Because the nation now has the plants and tools needed to "build" production to beat the Axis, the War Production board ordered a sweeping cut-back in the new war plant construction and machine tool output.

An estimated $4,000,000,000 worth of approved government-financed plant projects and machine tool contracts will be reviewed by the WPB, and in every case where existing plants or machines can do the job, the contracts are to be cancelled and plant construction stopped.

Signalling the final breaking of the machine tool bottleneck, WLB said a number of tool makers would go out of that business and into direct production of munitions.

While saying that the conversion job within the war program is on a scale "not unlike the conversion that accompanied industry's original changeover from civilian to military production," and that there would be temporary shutdowns—WPB officials insisted that "any slack will be absorbed speedily," by the upswinging pace of actual armament production.

"With the exception of certain special programs, some special machinery, and further expansion of raw materials production, the United States at last has the machine tools and the capital equipment it needs to build production to defeat the Axis," the WPB declared.

This is a far different occasion from the first meeting of these two great figures in August of 1941 when they held their historic Atlantic conference. That was less than two months after Germany struck at Russia with all the power of the mightiest fighting machine ever constructed.

The Germans were sweeping all before them, and the master hun's hoarse cries of triumph were ringing round the world. Those were days of grim anxiety for the Allies, though never of despair.

"OLD MILL" BURNED AT EAST PALESTINE

EAST PALESTINE, May 12.—"Ye Old Mill" service station on Taggart st., an East Palestine landmark, was damaged by flames last night.

The service station, a flour mill years ago was operated by William Dryden.

Deputy Sheriff William Shasten said the fire started at 9 p. m., spreading rapidly through the large building. Explosion of three oil drums blew out one section of the wall. The debris fell on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and delayed one train before it could be cleaned up.

A live cigarette butt is believed to have been tossed near some oil, causing the fire. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

NAZI SUPER RACE JUST FAIRY STORY

Churchill Again In U. S. to Plot Further Moves Against Axis

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

Prime Minister Churchill's arrival in Washington is a further stimulating exhibition of that friendly Allied cooperation and co-ordination of effort which made the great Tunisian victory possible.

It is the Axis debacle in North Africa, of course, which has brought England's great man across the Atlantic again. That has opened the flood-gate of possibilities for direct assault on Hitler's European fortress—or what he hopes is a fortress. It also may ease the way for extension of activities against the Japs.

There has been no indication of what line the Washington conference might take. It would be surprising, however, if the fundamental strategy of knocking out Hitler first should be to the Orient.

We now have Herr Hitler in serious difficulties as the result of the policy of concentration. We achieved success in Tunisia by hitting the weakened Axis forces ceaselessly and furiously at many points simultaneously. Whether we are in position to apply these methods to the all highest on the continent is something which will be determined at Washington and in consultation with Moscow, but the conferees may decide that the time to catch a June bug is when he's on his back.

Keep Japs In Mind In any event, intensification of operations against the arch gangster wouldn't preclude extension of activities against the Japanese. Allied production has reached huge proportions, and the reclamation of the Mediterranean zone with its invaluable shipping routes has eased the situation so that doubtless more help can be sent to General MacArthur.

This is a far different occasion from the first meeting of these two great figures in August of 1941 when they held their historic Atlantic conference. That was less than two months after Germany struck at Russia with all the power of the mightiest fighting machine ever constructed.

The Germans were sweeping all before them, and the master hun's hoarse cries of triumph were ringing round the world. Those were days of grim anxiety for the Allies, though never of despair.

BRITISH HEM CAP BON AREA

Hammering from All Sides At Last Pocket of Axis Resistance

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 12.—German resistance has melted away on Cap Bon, and British armor, after making a complete circuit of the peninsula to its tip, is stabbing inland and rounding up tens of thousands of freely surrendering enemy troops, front line dispatches said today.

Only one center of Axis fighting spirit existed in all North Africa today, and that was a 15-mile wide circular area southwest of the peninsula where Allied armor, troops and planes were attacking from all sides.

Streams of meek Germans, driving their own trucks, moved bumper to bumper in miles-long lines from dusty Cap Bon toward prison cages in the rear, the front line accounts of Associated Press Correspondent Daniel De Luce said.

The Germans had made no real attempt to hold the cape, he said, and threw up their arms and raised white flags in ready token of surrender without even attempting an Axis Dunkerque when a single squadron of British armored cars reached Cap Bon lighthouse at 3 p. m. yesterday.

So thoroughly had the patrols of Gen. K. A. N. Anderson infiltrated into Cap Bon peninsula that Allied air bombing of the bomb-yiddled area was called off late yesterday because of the danger of hitting friendly troops.

ARMY PROUD OF NEW PLASTIC CANTEEN

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., May 12.—Plastics are going to war—in canteens, whistles, knife handles, foot tubs and many other products—to save aluminum, brass and rubber.

The plastics section of the army's big quartermaster depot here has incubated many of the substitute items, but it's proudest of the new canteen, Lieut. Col. Hugh S. Harpole, director of the depot's engineering division, explained why: "It's lighter, stands rougher treatment, and resists, even at excessive temperatures, action of any liquid which might conceivably be placed in a canteen, and difficult molding problems had to be conquered in making it."

The plastic canteen, weighing about six and one-half ounces, is almost two ounces lighter than the old aluminum flask, which had been standard equipment in the army since 1910.

Bomber Pilot Killed SHREVEPORT, La., May 12.—The pilot was fatally injured, but six other crew members parachuted to safety when a medium bomber on a routine flight from Barksdale field crashed and burned two miles southwest of here yesterday.

THREE INDIA LEADERS ARE WITH PREMIER

Hint Attention to Strategy Against Japanese In South Pacific

MAY CHART MOVES TO ASSIST CHINA

Second Front In Europe Will Not Be Sidetracked, In Any Event

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A White House disclosure today that Prime Minister Churchill had brought with him three important leaders from the India theater of operations provided indications that the prime minister and President Roosevelt might place much emphasis in their conferences on strategy against Japan.

In the Churchill party were: Field Marshal Sir A. P. Wavell, commander in chief of British military forces in India; Admiral Sir James Somerville, commander in chief of the eastern fleet at Ceylon; and Air Chief Marshal Sir Richard Peirse, air officer commanding in chief in India.

Their presence here for important war talks lent weight to the possibility that Britain and the United States might be charting Burma road again for a vital supply artery. President Roosevelt has promised that China will be used as a base for attacks on Japan itself.

White House officials said no American officers from the Indian area, so far as they know, have been brought to Washington for the parleys.

However, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commanding American forces in India, came to the capital some time ago for conferences, as did Major General Claire Chennault, commanding American air forces in China.

The possibility could not be discounted that some sort of joint sea, land and air offensive might be opened against the Japanese, but there was nothing to indicate whether that step might be the dominant major move now contemplated by the Allies.

There was no reason to believe that the question of a second front on the European continent was to be sidetracked, however, since Churchill also brought with him some of his other key advisers.

WAR TOLL HIGH ON LENINGRAD FRONT

More Than 1,000 Nazis Killed In Last 24 Hours, Russian Claim

MOSCOW, May 12.—More than 1,000 German troops have been killed on the Leningrad front in the last 24 hours, Russian dispatches said today, as the entire battle line surged with new activity from that northern sector to the continuing struggle around Novorossisk, on the Black sea.

The action before Leningrad, whose 515-day siege was broken in mid-January, appeared to be only a scouting operation in force, intended to establish a new German sector line and not the beginning of an out-and-out offensive. The German attempts failed after two attacks.

Russian guns opened up after the assaults and have pounded and damaged the German positions since, it was said.

The Red army generally held the initiative everywhere along the line, and the government newspaper Izvestia said editorially "the war with Hitlerite Germany has entered its decisive phase."

The battle for Novorossisk apparently had resolved itself into a Russian attempt to pulverize the German positions with air attacks, sustained artillery fire and infantry sorties.

The midnight communique said 56 enemy planes were destroyed in the area yesterday against a loss of 11 Soviet planes.

In the lower Kuban valley, apparently northwest of Novorossisk, a German fortified key position was reported captured and a company of German troops killed in yesterday's fighting.

Resumption of German attacks on the Russian Donets river positions near Lisichansk, gateway to Voroshilovgrad, was reported. Three waves of Nazi tank and infantry assaults were beaten off, 13 enemy tanks knocked out and about 800 Germans killed in the last 24 hours, it was said.

The punishment inflicted by the Russian air force on railway centers has been felt so severely by the Germans that they have switched from train to truck transport, and the Soviet fliers switched along with them to begin pounding the roads.

PURPOSES OF A CURFEW

Comments heard since a committee representing several organizations asked city council to enact a curfew ordinance in Salem, indicate that a great many people, especially parents, are strongly in favor of such legislation. These comments also have revealed that some people do not fully understand the primary purpose of such an ordinance.

A curfew does not mean that all children must be off the streets by 11 o'clock, or whatever time may be designated as the curfew hour. The real purpose is to break up the practice of children loitering on the streets late at night, and congregating in night spots until the wee hours of the morning. Such an ordinance is intended to give police the authority which they lack at present to get these youngsters going about their business, whether it be toward home or on some other mission. Only in extreme cases would detention or arrest be necessary or advisable, but occasionally such could be expected if police orders were not heeded.

The movement was not started nor even suggested by the probation officer, but by citizens who seek to break up bad practices in this city. One peculiar reaction came from a service organization which contended that disciplinary legislation should not be enacted. The trouble is that teen age boys and girls who have been running around late at night, some with improper escorts frequenting taverns and other night spots, lack the proper discipline and if they do not get it at home some other measures should be provided for their own protection.

A recreation program, suggested by this organization as a substitute for a curfew, is not the answer to the problem in Salem today. The more recreation programs that can be provided the better, but in themselves such programs will not control youngsters in the later hours of the night. In the first place, they will not appeal to the class of young boys and girls now getting their first taste of night life. Recreation programs serve a good purpose in any community and should be encouraged. Let them be organized here, but don't forget the curfew which would give the police officers the authority they are seeking to break up the night life of youngsters who apparently can't be controlled otherwise.

CAN WE STAND SUCCESS?

Success in Tunisia is raising a new problem for the civilian population of the United States. Can we stand success?

From the outbreak of war in the fall of 1939 until Japan attacked the United States at Pearl Harbor, this country was plagued with its own indecision. Its leadership and to a large extent the people themselves took refuge in a psychology of defense. Americans tried to prepare themselves to deal with unknown and indeterminate dangers.

Their confusion was dissolved by the shocking realization after Pearl Harbor that they had wasted precious time debating questions which their enemies already had decided. The United States had been marked for attack; it was going to participate in the war; the Axis always had considered it as an enemy.

The psychology of defense was abandoned and replaced with a new and dynamic psychology of action. Virtually everything that needed to be done to transform the nation from peace to war had to be done under emergency conditions in a hurry. The people accepted the challenge and went to work. The goal was full war status by the summer of 1943.

Until the invasion of North Africa by United States troops last November and the beginning of separate aerial missions by American crews and planes a little later, the people had no clear idea about the manner in which their increasing ability to make war would be used. Operations in the Pacific continued to be determined largely by Japanese moves; the action there plainly constituted a holding campaign pending a favorable decision against Germany.

The first step in reaching that decision has been finished; the Germans and Italians have been defeated in North Africa. Their defeat has been a moderately important success for the United States, which shared responsibility for the climatic campaign with Great Britain and France. But there are signs, unfortunately, that even a moderate success is going to entail still a psychological adjustment.

There are too many inclined now to talk and presumably to think as though the successful outcome of the war in Europe could be viewed as a foregone conclusion. Insofar as such an attitude reflects confidence, it cannot be criticized. But it reflects something more than confidence; it shows failure to grasp the fact that the real test of America's ability to make war is still ahead. There is real danger of a return to the wishful thinking and dreaming that were this country's unflattering characteristics before Pearl Harbor.

Specially, too much time is being wasted on squabbles inside the country. Matters that wouldn't even be mentioned if Americans were overwhelmingly sold on the necessity of all-out effort for all-out war are being debated as though this country had the next 50 years to do what should have been done at least a year ago and must be done within the next few months.

Dangerous confusion of purpose is evident all the way from the foolish automobile driver who abuses his tires because he wants to think new ones will be ready for him when he needs them to the foolish administrator in Washington who becomes involved to the nation's detriment in a squabble with some other administrator. Instead of a little success stiffening our determination to make greater sacrifices to win a big success, it threatens to go to our heads and distract attention from the work to be done. Our war psychology, which reached its peak immediately after Pearl Harbor, is not what it should be for a country talking about invading Europe. There are too many civilian members of the war organization—and that means all of us—so busy fighting each other they can't keep their eye on the war against the common enemy.

For Thursday, May 13

UNDER CONFLICTING planetary aspects this may be a day calling for much discretion, sagacity, good nature and prudence. Although fair progress is indicated, to be attained by cleverness, stability and straightforward measures yet a sudden and unpredictable circumstance may throw things off balance. Take others into consideration, as private affairs may bring happy reactions. Safeguard and sign all documents or writings with caution. Maintain poise and calm.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a year of contradictory prospects, with private domestic or affectional affairs giving satisfactions while business matters may be the target for a surprising blow. Balance, calm judgment and well-considered moves rather than impulsive acts, emotional outbursts or wild urges to make changes or go traveling, might turn the tide to success and progress.

A child born on this day may be high strung, changeable, temperamental and nervous, which may beget reversals and defeat in business, although it may be engaging and charming in its personal revelations.

AXIS CALM (?)

LONDON, May 12.—The impending "Battle for Germany," sharply focused by Prime Minister Churchill's conferences in Washington with President Roosevelt, found Axis propaganda agencies attempting to present an outward front of calm confidence today.

After fishing yesterday for news of the whereabouts of the British prime minister in broadcasts asserting he was in Cairo, the Berlin radio said today that "Churchill's arrival in Washington caused no surprise in Berlin."

It told its listeners that Washington talks probably would center less on military problems than on the political situation which is marked by Stalin again being absent."

Hitler Moves

Earlier the German people were told that Adolf Hitler, whose headquarters had long been described as in the eastern front, now was at an unspecified point in the west; that Prof. Albert Speer, Nazi minister of munitions, reported to Hitler yesterday on the construction of "the Atlantic wall;" and that "victory without compromise" would remain the goal for which Germany and her partners are striving.

In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill conducted another council of war today as the trumpets of the Tunisian triumph sounded the Allied shift to major offensive strategy.

Meanwhile, on the home front the house military committee pressed for action on the toughest labor bill since Pearl Harbor. It had its eye on the troubled coal situation which threatened war production with a nationwide walkout week-end before last. So did the government officials who sought help from four different quarters as a 15-day truce neared its end with no sign of a sure cure as yet.

The senate swung into debate on a drastically-changed pay-as-you-go tax bill, a Republican split strengthened the administration's hand on renewal of the reciprocal trade program, and a reportedly discouraging milk production outlook resulted in a study of milk rationing proposals.

The house military committee sought action late this week on its unanimously-approved measure to prevent—or at least delay—wartime strikes. Among other things, the bill would strengthen the War Labor board's forces, providing it with subpoena rights, ban jurisdictional disputes, secondary boycotts, and sympathy strikes, and call for filing of union financial statements.

Hope For Legislation
As the Tuesday midnight expiration of the soft coal truce drew nearer, passage of some such legislation in time to discourage another walkout was one of four hopes the government held to avert a new crisis. The other three were that the Fuel Administration, the nation's mining boss, might get an extension of the truce; that a War Labor board panel may whip into shape an interim report in time for the board to take some action; and that President Roosevelt might invoke additional powers as commander in chief to back up his insistence that coal must be mined.

The tax debate was slated to start on the senate finance committee's bill to abate all of either 1942 or 1943 income tax liabilities—which ever is the lesser—with provisions for taxing large "windfall" incomes.

The house approached the end of a hotly-waged fight over a Republican "protective" move to subject President Roosevelt's reciprocal trade pacts to congressional veto, which was denounced by the Democrats as "crippling." The latter banked on a letter from GOP National Chairman H. E. Spangler which said the pacts should not be disturbed "at least during the war and sometime thereafter" to split Republican strength. In any case it appeared the trade act would be extended three more years.

Talk of further dairy products rationing came from the War Food administration as government dairy authorities expressed discouragement over 1943 milk production prospects. Proposals under consideration call for rationing fluid milk in deficit producing areas and evaporated milk in all areas and for curtailing use of milk in some dairy products.

PASADENA, Calif.—Mrs. Bessie Winder gave the police her definition of the "meanest thief." He stole her pocketbook containing some money and her rationing book with Coupon No. 17 good for one pair of shoes still unutilized. She told the chief she had been saving it to buy a new pair of shoes for spring. She said she did not mind the money stolen, but to have to go without a new pair of shoes was just too much.

TOBACCO AND THE HUMAN SYSTEM

Use It Moderately, Is Doctor's Advice

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PEOPLE who argue about the harmfulness or lack of harm in tobacco should remember it was first used as a medicine—healing rather than harming.

When the Spaniards were introduced to tobacco by the Indians, Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

they found it was used for the treatment of wounds. The Indians also used it for pains, especially joint pains, and they used it just as we do—by inhaling the smoke.

But all of this is of antiquarian interest. The modern man or woman wants the modern physician to declare whether the use of tobacco is good or bad for them.

Causes Functional Diseases
Unlike alcohol, tobacco does not cause any permanent organic diseases, only functional ones. In other words, tobacco causes no gross changes in any organ of the body, such as alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver. The functional changes which it produces are very definite. It increases the heart beat, often causing palpitation. It raises blood pressure a slightly and creates a spasm of the arteries. For the last reason it is distinctly to be forbidden in cases of pain around the heart—angina pectoris.

As everyone knows from his own first experiences with it, it certainly can cause nausea, vomiting, digestive upsets and a state of shock. On the good side of the ledger, it tends to relieve constipation.

Cheewing Tobacco Harmful
I believe that a number of people, especially those who chew tobacco, have ruined their health for life by creating an inflammation of the stomach and bowel and consequently, malnutrition and underweight.

The key to the whole subject of the use of tobacco is the word "moderation," but that is a very difficult word to define. The trouble with moderation is that people start in and say they are only going to have one cigar or one cigarette and then they go on to five or six. The chain smoker is certainly not acting moderately.

For nervous, high-strung people and those with a tendency to indigestion or heart pain, I believe tobacco is distinctly bad. For us moderate smokers it is harmless and a joy added to life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. M.:—Please explain the word astigmatism. What is the cause of it? Is there anything a mother could do when she is pregnant? Will a child with astigmatism have to wear glasses all its life?

Answer: Astigmatism is change in the contour of the cornea of the eye. It has nothing to do with heredity and there is nothing a mother could do during pregnancy to prevent it. It is not serious; in fact, there are very few normal eyes in the world and probably about 80 per cent of the human race have some degree of astigmatism. Whether glasses should be worn or not depends on how serious it is—whether it causes any symptoms, such as headache.

F. T. J.: Is it a serious operation to have bunions removed from the feet and about how long would it be before a person could return to work after such an operation?

Answer: Bunion repair is not considered to be a serious operation, but for good healing to occur it takes some time—at least a week or more before activity can be resumed.

P. W. R.:—I understand that the continued use of yeast has been known to create a permanent cure for diabetes. Is this true?

Answer: No.

O. M. H.:—Can a lady past 80 years, having had her change 42 years ago, now in good health, have a return of her menses?

Answer: I would say that kind of discharge was most likely to be a diseased condition and requires immediate examination.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The name "Johnson" appears to be an open sesame if you don't mind using a not uncommon name. A man drove up to the Studio Sport Modes Co. here and said he was after "shipments". Two clerks carried a number of parcels containing women's slacks to his truck. "Tell the regular man that 'Johnson' was here and picked up the deliveries," he said as he drove away. Only when the regular man arrived was it discovered that "Johnson" had driven away with $1,000 worth of goods.

DEATH GOES NATIVE

By MAX LONG

CHAPTER TWENTY

We went first to the Delmar house, wishing to verify, if we could, Mrs. Delmar's statement that the keys did not belong there. There seemed no reason why she should lie about this, since they could have been carried to the sampan by Delmar himself, but on the other hand, if the keys belonged to the Delmars, there was no use in our looking further to identify them.

We tried the keys in everything that had a lock, but none of them fitted. In the bedroom the drawer of a chest was hanging open, empty except for a lingerie strap, some rumpled sachets and such odds-and-ends as one discards when packing. Komako whistled over this, then found a suitcase and a couple of bags under the bed. They were all heavy, and since they were not locked we soon verified our suspicion that they were packed.

"She means to leave here right away!" I exclaimed.

"She don't go," Komako said grumpily. "She not clear yet, even if keys not fit. Come, come, we go to other houses. I find only black ink here, anyhow."

The net result of our expedition was that we found no purple ink whatever, nor any sign of my knife and spear. The keys seemed to fit in some of the luggage in the various houses, but the locks were too rusty to yield. The oiled padlock on Herd's homemade box opened to one flat key, but a hairpin would have done just as well.

Komako disappointedly returned the keys to his pocket. "Clue not so good. But I think of fine hiding place for your spear, Hasty."

He led the way outdoors, and starting with Budd's house, we went down the line examining the edges of the thatched roofs under the overhanging eaves. We were down as far as the Wests' without any success, when we caught sight of a swift movement across Mrs. Delmar's nanai.

We stood motionless in the shrubbery, waiting. After an interval a slight woman's figure ventured out of the deep shadow. The sun caught the spun gold of her hair. It was Elaine. She was stuffing something into her blouse as she looked nervously around, and held it there as she darted across to the Latham house.

Komako strode out of the bushes without comment and down the path after her. She saw him and hesitated for an instant, then ran swiftly into the house.

"Missus Elaine!" he called, his voice casual and friendly, as he advanced on the house with me at his heels.

When we reached the lanai she came out of one of the rooms. There was wild panic in her deep blue eyes, and every trace of delicate color had left her face.

"You all done gardening?" Komako asked, smiling at her reassuringly. "Where is everybody?"

"I-I ran on ahead," she managed to say shakily.

Mrs. Delmar even not here yet," he continued gently. "We saw you in her house. What you bring from there?"

She just stared at him, seemingly unable to answer, to make any reasonable excuse for having been there. Her fright grew, and she started past us as if to escape back to the gardens. Then the doctor came running with swift long steps down the path.

Elaine ran to meet him and threw herself, sobbing, into his arms. He glared at us over her head, then bent all his attention to soothing her. Finally he said shortly to us: "Stay here! I want to talk to you fellows," and took her into the house.

When he came back his face was stern and set. "What did you say to upset her?"

"Nothing," Komako answered with dignity. "We only ask why she was in Mrs. Delmar's house. Something else already scare her."

Dr. Latham studied us in a perplexed way. We were conscious of the other colonists returning, and when his mother turned into their cottage he said tensely: "Come down to the pool with me where we can talk. There's something I've got to tell you."

It was a strange, baffling story he unfolded, down there by the clear waters of the pool. It was impossible not to believe him while he was recounting it, for his deeply worried eyes and low voice carried desperate pleading for understanding. And yet, later....

"I hoped to avoid this," he began unhappily, "but it is only as you understand, that you may be able to help about Elaine in this sorry mass. You must never say anything that might frighten her."

Komako asked, "She know about murder? And that you think Hasty done it?"

"She knows the bare facts about Delmar's death, but"—Latham turned his tortured eyes on me—"we've said nothing about Mr. Hoyt. I can't quite bring myself to believe that accusation, really. No, the reason she must not be subjected to any shock goes much farther back than this recent event." He looked uncertainly at Komako. "I don't suppose you know what amnesia means?"

"No, Komako said promptly. He scratched his head. "I know Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese, and little bit Russian—but I not know that one. More better talk English to me."

"Amnesia is loss of memory," Dr. Latham explained carefully. "Elaine doesn't even know her real name, or where she came from or who her people are. I've not been able to find out a thing about her earlier life in the eighteen months since I saw her first."

"That's very funny kind," Komako said skeptically. "She extra pretty sweet child and she don't ask pupile like that."

I took my turn at explaining, and Komako was soon satisfied, as long as I had known of such cases.

"She was found," the doctor resumed, "by a policeman, sitting bedraggled and starved on a park bench in New York, utterly blank as to how she had come there. She was taken to a hospital and for a time lay very ill from exhaustion, fright and nervous shock. She grew stronger—but her memory did not return. A friend of mine on the staff interested me in the case—though it was not my line and I know little of psychiatry—"

"You know that word?" Komako demanded of me, and when I nodded he gave the doctor his fascinated attention again.

Latham's big hands twisted together as he went on: "She was very pitiful—so lost and bewildered.... When she was well physically—my mother was interested in her, too—we took her to our home."

"You advertised, of course," I suggested.

"Everything possible was done to find her family—her picture in the papers, everything. She may have changed radically in appearance, as the torn clothes she had on in the park were too large for her. She'd lost flesh through starvation and illness. At any rate, we never found a clue to her identity. In the meantime I hoped that in our home, under our care, with peace and quiet—and I started to study psychiatry, too.... It was no use. Her memory did not return."

"That's no matter," Komako said calmly. "Now you love her and she love you. So now you get married, no?"

Dr. Latham stared at him, and if ever I saw stark tragedy it lay in those deep-set eyes. "She may already be married, don't you see? She may love someone else—and when her memory returns she will know it."

The scene of Elaine's waking from her dream-walking at this very pool edge came sharply to my mind. She had had another man's name on her lips: "Peter...."

Komako asked softly: "She know what you afraid of if she get back her remembering?"

"She knows that stands between us."

Komako clucked in sympathy and I saw that he was completely sold. As a matter of fact, so was I. The doctor seemed to be revealing his tortured heart in the difficult words he forced himself to speak.

Komako asked anxiously: "You terrible sure her remembering will come back?"

"It's got to!" Latham said fiercely. "I can't let—myself—stand in the way. I've got to do everything possible to restore it."

"Hippocrates' oath sort of thing," I said under my breath. "Medical ethics—"

Komako paid no attention to my mutterings, for he was humming in a kind of low growl as he often did when lost in thought. He said abruptly: "Why you not want me to scare her by asking questions?"

"Because a shock—anything like what she may have sustained before—might send her over the border line into insanity."

"Isn't it possible," I suggested, "that a shock might jolt her memory back into place, so to speak?"

Latham's bronzed face turned a paler shade. "There is that possibility.... I'm a coward, I guess. I'm afraid of it."

The poor fellow was in a dilemma; lover fighting doctor. I regretted my last question and sought to ease the tension by asking why they had come to Waimaka.

"We brought her to Honolulu," the doctor explained, "hoping that travel might open some avenue of memory. But it seemed to worry her. We ran into Mr. Budd and heard of his plans for a colony here. I thought such isolation might be good for her nerves—she was having bothersome dreams and walking in her sleep.... It's only brought us closer together than I ever intended."

Komako got to his feet and held out his hand to give Latham's hand a long hard grip. "We be very careful with her, now we know."

"Thank you. I'm sure you both will."

A coverd dinner and Mother-Daughter party was enjoyed by 125 members and guests of the Loyal Women's class of the Christian church last evening at the church.

Missouri Girl Bride of Corp. Bennett

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Margie Veronica Merrigan, daughter of Mr. Thomas J. Merrigan, Camerone, Mo., and Corp. Howard LeRoy Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bennett, 317 Woodland ave.

The ceremony was performed May 8 by Monsignor Keyes, pastor of the St. James Catholic church in Kansas City, Mo. in the presence of a few friends and relatives. The double ring service was used.

The bride wore a two-piece aqua gabardine suit with luggage tan accessories, with a shoulder corsage of white carnations and babies breath.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Albert Wiederholt of Kansas City, served as her only attendant and wore a navy blue suit with yellow accessories. Her escort was of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Albert Wiederholt was best man.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of Miss Bernice Krebs. There was also a buffet lunch in their honor later in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiederholt. A large wedding cake, topped with the miniature bride and groom, was the centerpiece.

Mrs. Bennett attended Cameron High school and Huff's Business college, Kansas City, and is now employed as a secretary for the Crane Co. there.

Corp. Bennett is stationed with the Central Radio school for high speed operators in Kansas City. Before entering the service he was employed on the shell line at Mullins plant.

Dependency Check Thieves Operating, Government Warns

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, May 12—The United States Secret Service set out today to enlist the aid of people in coping with a new "meanest man"—he who steals dependency allotment checks for dependents of men in the armed services.

Admitting that thievery and forgery of these checks is on the increase, Secret Service said: "Be sure some member of the family is at home when the checks are due to be delivered."

Equip all mail boxes with a lock and print the individual's name clearly on the outside.

Cash checks in the same place each month, thus making identification easier.

To those cashing government checks, Secret Service said: "Insist that a person presenting a government check properly identify himself as the person entitled to the check."

Insist that all checks be initiated by the employees who pay out money for them, or who approve such payment.

Insist that all checks be endorsed in your presence.

graded into five grades and appropriately marked at the time of slaughter. The substantial portion of grading and marking is performed by expert impartial graders of the United States department of agriculture, according to the requirements and objective standards provided in the wholesale meat regulations.

Fixed According to Grade

The practice of grading meat has been carried on in the industry for many years and by the department of agriculture since 1926. The whole-sale prices of meat are fixed according to grades, and different prices for different grades are fixed at retail.

The grades and prices included in today's amendment are expected to be a deterrent to hidden price increases, will equalize competitors, and will aid substantially in enforcement of the price regulation.

Maximum pricing by zones for the five grades is established in the amendment, as in the original regulation, for two broad divisions of retail stores—those with a comparatively small volume of sales, and those with a large volume. Prices for the smaller volume stores, which have higher operating costs, are slightly higher than those for the large volume stores.

Among additions and changes in the cuts priced today, are the inclusion of ceiling prices for beef soup bones and suet. In Zone 7, Ohio, for example, the ceiling for soup bones is three cents per pound and for suet five cents per pound.

Chuck shoulders are priced in two cuts; chuck blade, bone-in, and chuck arm, bone-in. The ceiling price of each of these cuts now is 34 cents per pound (Grade A) in small volume stores. This price is the same for either the roast or the steak.

English cut roast is added to the schedule of beef prices, being 34 cents per pound for Grade A in small volume stores.

Class I stores are those with annual gross sales of less than $50,000 which are also independent stores. Class II stores are independents doing $50,000 annual gross sales but less than $250,000. Class III stores are chain stores whose annual gross sales are less than $250,000 and Class IV are stores doing more than $250,000 whether chain or not.

The five grades of beef and veal are AA or choice; A or good; B or commercial; C or utility and D or cutters and canners. Mutton is graded in S or prime, choice and good; M or commercial and R or utility and culls. Lamb is graded as AA or choice; A or good; B or commercial and C or utility.

"Two-Timing" In Capital

COLUMBUS, May 12.—Residents of the state capital will turn their clocks ahead an hour Sunday, giving the city two times because clocks in state offices must remain unchanged to conform with the law which made Eastern Standard the official Ohio time Feb. 21.

Mayor Floyd P. Green said he would sign an ordinance returning the city to Eastern War time Sunday.

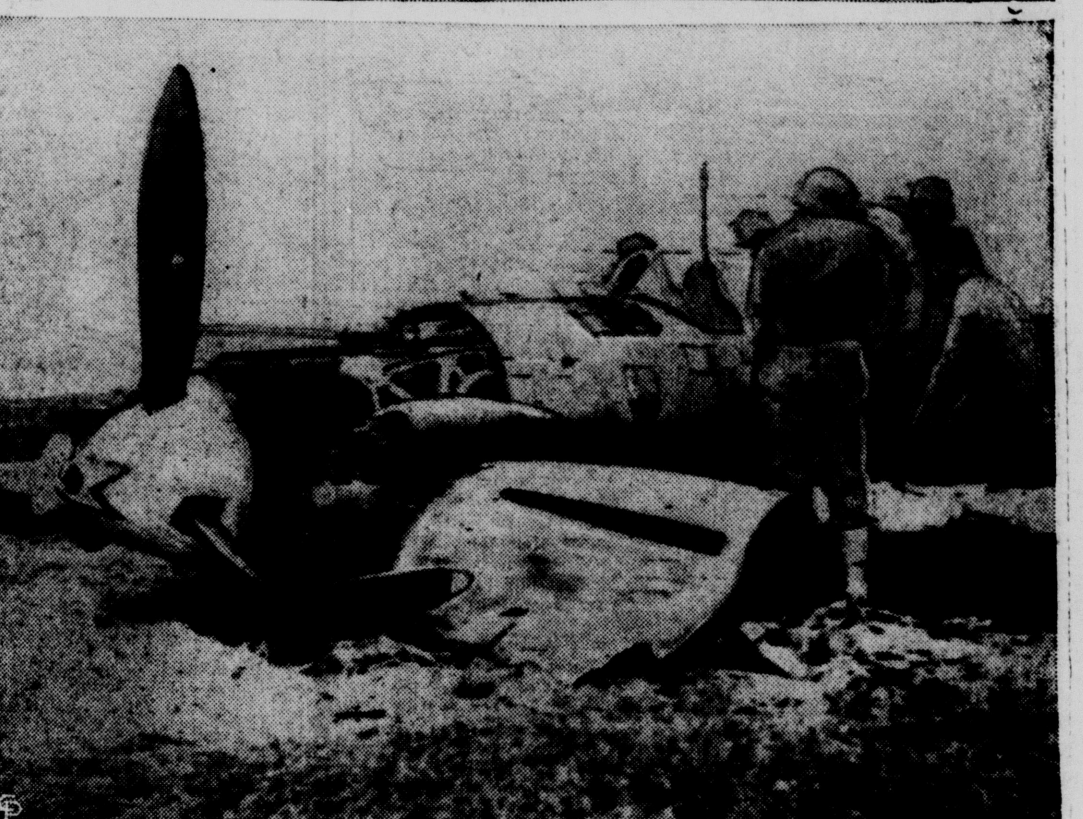

Dayton will be the state's only major city on slow time after Columbus moves its clocks ahead. Eastern time has been accepted generally only in smaller cities and rural areas.

Another Puzzle

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Perhaps the most important question facing the Allies following the liberation of Tunisia, and one which may enter into the current talks between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, is what to do about the large Italian population in that French protectorate.

The family quarrel which the Allies have inherited is complicated by the fact that there are almost as many Italians there as French citizens. They numbered about 94,000 in the 1938 census, compared with 108,000 French, and have been used OWI said, as the tools of Fascist and nationalistic propaganda from Italy.

"An aspect of the Tunisian-Italian question which appears to have come to the fore particularly since the war—partly owing, most probably, to the evident danger of an Italian occupation—is the anti-Italian feeling among the Arabs," an OWI report continued.

Russians Abducted, Charge

LONDON, May 12.—The Moscow radio reported today that Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov had addressed a note to the Allied governments accusing Germany of abducting Russian citizens for slave labor in Germany and warning that those responsible would be brought to account after the war.

The broadcast was recorded by the Soviet radio monitor here.

Molotov said Reichsmarshal Herman Goering ordered full use made of the captured Russians at a secret conference in November, 1941, and reported the German marshal had declared "they are excellent workmen who succeeded in creating a great industry in their own country."

Molotov charged that Fritz Sauckel, Nazi labor manpower commissioner, had at one time demanded the dispatch to Germany of "400,000 to 500,000 healthy, strong girls."

The Russians sent to the reich have been half-starved and forced to work 12 hours a day, the note said.

Report Yanks In Cyprus

STOCKHOLM, May 12.—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today in a Sofia dispatch that an American army division commander and staff had arrived recently in Cyprus, island in the eastern Mediterranean, and United States troops were reported among Allied units allegedly massing there.

(There was no Allied confirmation of these reports.)

It said Cyprus might be the jumping off point for a Balkan invasion.

The dispatch said that the Stars and Stripes flew beside the British flag on the island.

Laval Plot Charged

BERN, Switzerland, May 12.—The Gazette De Lausanne reported here today that 150 Frenchmen, many of them government officials, have been arrested in Vichy on a charge of plotting to overthrow Pierre Laval, chief of the French government at Vichy.

New Medal for Elliott

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 12.—Col. Elliott Roosevelt, flying son of President Roosevelt, now wears the Air medal in addition to the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Announcement that Colonel Roosevelt had been awarded the Air medal for "meritorious achievement while participating in five operational sorties against the enemy" was made here yesterday.

He formerly was in charge of photographic reconnaissance in this theater.

The U. S. Eighth Air Force had announced only Monday that Roosevelt was back in England.

Bomb British Coast

LONDON, May 12.—Two persons were killed and others were reported trapped in the wreckage of buildings today when German Focke-Wulf fighters skimmed in low from the sea to attack an East Anglian coastal town in a daylight raid.

Three dwellings were flattened by one bomb which landed in a park and bounced 150 yards cross street before exploding.

Two places on the East Anglian coast were bombed by a small number of German raiders, but no casualties or damage were reported.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The luck of the Irish is proverbial. Mrs. Norbert Jansen, when a 23-year-old factory girl, won $60,000 in a Sweepstakes. Now she has come into print again by successfully giving birth to twins during Los Angeles' fifth blackout.

Won't Affect Ohio

COLUMBUS, May 12.—State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher said today any nation-wide rollback of liquor prices to approximately the March, 1942, levels would not affect Ohio.

He commented on Washington reports the Office of Price Administration was preparing a program to place specific retail and wholesale prices on all types of hard liquors this month or next.

Washington OPA sources who declined to be quoted indicated ceiling provisions of the general maximum price regulations were being disregarded widely, but Fisher declared Ohio prices always had been worked out in "close cooperation" with the OPA.

BOND REDEMPTION FIGURES ARE LOW

Redemption of War Savings bonds has been very low throughout the country, Postmaster A. E. Beardsmore was advised today in a report from Eugene W. Sloan, executive director of the War Savings staff.

From May 1, 1941, when savings bonds were first offered for sale, through March 31, 1943, redemptions have been less than three and a half percent of total sales, Sloan reported. And redemptions during March this year were only eighty-seven one hundredths of one percent of the total amount outstanding.

Just as encouraging is the report that in March, when the first tax installment fell due, bond sales were 6.4 percent higher than in February, and 65 percent ahead of March, 1942.

Quakers Swamp Wellsville Team In Dual Track Meet

VERTURF'S SQUAD RUNS UP BIGGEST SCORE OF SEASON

Final Count 106 1/2 to 111 1/2
County Meet Scheduled Here Friday

In a tune-up competition for the annual Columbiana county track meet Friday night under the lights at Reilly stadium, Coach Ray Overurf's Quaker thinclads last night swept the Wellsville Bengals right off the landscape here last night in a dual affair. The final score was 106 1/2 to 111 1/2 in favor of Salem. Overurf's lads captured every one of the 14 events. In some of them the competition was so light that time and distances suffered.

On the other hand, several of the Quaker lads really went to town. The broad jump, for instance, found Bingham and Dunlap battling for honors in a strictly intracounty rivalry and Bingham came through with a jump of 20 feet and 10 inches. Dunlap reeled off 19 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

Considerable more promise than has been evident up to date was shown in the pole vaulting, which was won by Flick Entrikin. With all competition out of the way, Entrikin went 10 feet, 3 inches, on his second trial at that height and was content to let it stand that way for the night.

Thomas got a 40-foot, 2-inch heave out of the shot put, although performing in a mass of muck, as most everyone else was.

On the whole, sufficient improvement has been shown in the Quaker output to warrant a little optimism, Coach Overurf feels. The lads to date have been performing in muddy jumping and throwing pits and rings and on soggy, heavy tracks. Conditions have been all against them. So, if they should happen to get some good weather (it can't rain forever) they ought to come through in good shape.

Summary of last night's meet:

Major League Clubs Start East-West Clashes Today

Associated Press Sports Writer
The major league season is three weeks old, but there is an evident widespread feeling that the games played thus far have proved very little about the ultimate strength of the various teams.

Two teams in each loop—the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals in the National, and the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians in the American—have established themselves as permanent possibilities, as they were rated before the season started.

For this reason the start of east-west play today in the two circuits was looked forward to eagerly. The western clubs seem to hold the balance of power in both leagues.

The Yankees have a good chance of holding their two game lead in the front rank. Their makeshift lineup has shown potential strength. The rookies in the infield have been doing well; Johnny Lindell, the pitcher converted into an outfielder and placed eighth in the batting order, has landed among the American league's 10 leading hitters; and the pitching has been satisfactory.

Indians Face Nats
New York's road trip will be opened against the weakling White Sox at Chicago, which also should help the Yanks because the Indians will be on the defense at Cleveland against a strong, fourth-place Washington club.

Another question to be answered is whether the Boston Red Sox are really as pitiable as their present place in the American league cellar indicates.

The fact they had to meet the Yankees eight times in their first 18 games may have had something to do with the Sox' slow start. Boston opens at St. Louis today and the Philadelphia Athletics at Detroit.

In the National league Brooklyn and St. Louis will be up against about equal opposition for the start of the intersectional struggle, the Dodgers playing the Pittsburgh Pirates in a twilight game and the Cardinals invading Boston.

To date the Dodgers have appeared slow, light hitting and uncertain in their pitching. The Cardinals have been hitting better.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, May 12—One of the choicer bits of sports nonsense is the "war" going on in the Pacific coast conference over next fall's football program. . . . graduate managers of the four southern schools decided they'd play a double round-robin schedule and let the six northern teams shift for themselves. The northern schools didn't like being shoved out of the big dough sector and they let everybody know it. . . . what makes it especially silly is that there's nothing official about the plan and there can't be until the 10 faculty representatives meet June 14, and there's no telling what they'll decide.

LONG RANGE VIEW
From this distance, even 500 miles look like a heck of a distance to travel for a football game, no matter how much mileage they save. . . . being safe from brickbats, we respectfully suggest they all look into some real backyard schedules, even if U. S. C. has to play the San Diego Bombers and California the St. Mary's pre-flight school every Saturday.

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Mickey Owen, usually a hard-to-sign guy, won't have another salary argument with the Dodgers until 1946. Branch Rickey gave him a three-year contract this spring. . . . now that Greg Rice has joined the Maritime service, he has to learn to swim—so watch out for more records.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
Art McGinley, Hartford (Conn.) Times: "A man could have done all right with the fur coat concession for April in our baseball parks."

SERVICE DEPT.
Lieut. Col. Larry MacPhail recently substituted for Undersecretary of War Patterson on a visit to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., to review the WAACS. Larry had better training for the job. . . . the all-officer baseball team of the army school for special service at Washington and Lee U. played two ball games last week and won both. Lieut. Dave Zinkoff, former Philadelphia sports announcer, modestly claims credit for the job. . . . another reason for the shortage of sports news: The Peoria, Ill., Journal-Transcript is the second paper we've heard of that has contributed nine members of its sports staff to the armed forces.

LAST WORD
A couple of the Yankees were discussing Roy Partee, the Red Sox rookie catcher. "He looks like a swell little catcher," one of them said. "How does he look hitting?" "He looks," replied Coach Johnny Schulte, "like that's what he does best."

Rams Not For Sale
CLEVELAND, May 12—Coach Charles (Chill) Walsh of the Cleveland Rams says the team's owners, Lieut. Dan Reeves and Maj. Fred Levy, Jr., of the U. S. Army Air Forces, are not interested in selling the club. Previously it was reported Ted Collins, radio singer Kate Smith's manager, had offered to buy the team which has been permitted to withdraw from the league for the duration because of the owners' absence.

Jockey Repeats Success
COLUMBUS, May 12—Jockey Willie McCadden, for the third time in a little more than 10 months, has dominated a racing program.

Riding at nearby Beulah park yesterday, the 26-year-old Cleveland rider triumphed five times and was third in the remaining three races on the eight-event card.

CINCINNATI—Ray Mueller, the Cincinnati Reds' new backstop, set what is believed to be a modern record for catchers last year when he caught 164 games for Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League.

tyranny." They offered Stalin maximum help.

What a Change

What a change now! We get a fair measure of it in the little story of Nazi Major General Wilhelm Barotz, commander of the German Fifth armored division in Tunisia, who wept when he surrendered. Tears squeezed from the Hitlerian brand of Prussian militarism, which has been murdering and pillaging in an effort to enslave the world.

Then from Cap Bon comes word of the boche soldiers who rode to voluntary imprisonment in an Arab camp drawn by a plume-bedecked horse—and they cheered wildly as they drove out of the war. Hitler's invincibles!

To this we really must add the remark of the battle-begrimed Yankee general who called for "unconditional surrender"—or else—on the American Second Army Corps front. Said he:

"We split them in two and knock hell out of them."

So Hitler's story of a super-race is just a fairy tale after all. He made a lot of people—including himself—believe it for a long time. That doesn't mean all the boche are going to ride gaily to surrender behind a plume-adorned Arab horse. We have heavy and costly fighting ahead of us—perhaps some of the bloodiest work of the entire war, for we shall be attacking a powerful enemy on his own grounds. Still, we have the boche nicely sized up now and know that we can do the job.

SHIPYARD WORKERS UNDER INDICTMENT

BALTIMORE, May 12. — Seven former Baltimore shipyard workers were under federal grand jury indictment today on charges of violating the sabotage act by improperly welding ships under construction for the maritime commission. The seven defendants were accused under a section of the act which makes it a criminal offense for an individual to commit an act "with reason to believe that his act might injure, interfere with or obstruct the United States in preparing for and carrying out the war."

Agents for the federal bureau of investigation testified at preliminary hearing for the seven—and three others—that the men had engaged in "slugging" or "bridging"—faulty welding practices that speed up production and increase wages of men working on a production basis, but result in bad workmanship.

The seven welders indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday included Wilfred James Gossman, 23, Zanesville, O.
